

SAE Financial and Housing Corporation Architect Drawing House Design

In the web asset “General Design Objectives and Best Design Practices” are several best practices that F&H and the architects have used in our designs to ensure that SAE houses built are competitive with the most advanced dormitory and apartment designs. Pictures of the Indiana Sigma (INSI) house are shown in the web asset “Pictures of Projects.”

If there is a possibility that your house corporation would like to pursue a similar project you can 1) engage F&H, or 2) do it yourself with your own architect and contractors.

If you select option 2, the base plans that were used for INSI can be made available under an agreement with F&H. If you want more information contact Greg Somers, Associate Executive Director F&H at gsomers at SAE.net.
